

CONSIGNMENT ADVISORY

Thank you for trusting us to handle your ticket needs.

To sell your tickets, we must have the digital or physical ticket(s) in our possession.

We are taking temporary ownership of the tickets until sold or reclaimed by the original owner with the right to sell and maximize value. To that end, we will list your tickets for sale on several ticket marketplaces simultaneously.

We will handle pricing, delivery and any marketplace issues with our retail customers.

Our commission is 15% of the gross sale amount. (e.g: a total sale of $100.00 will result in a net payout to you of $85.00).

Typically, we payout in 7-10 business days post event via Zelle, Chase Quickpay, Venmo.

There is NO GUARANTEE that the tickets will sell or that they will sell for a specific price.

We reserve the right to adjust the price to encourage a sale.

You will receive an e-mail notice when your tickets have sold.

You can reclaim unsold tickets until the event time but we must receive a notice from you within a reasonable period of time via phone call, text or e-mail. You can then reclaim your ticket only after we've responded that it has been taken down from our inventory.

You will receive a forwarded e-mail from the market place with notice that your tickets sold. Final payout will be less our 15% commission.

By signing these terms and conditions, the customer agrees to the details of the agreement.

Specifically, the customer agrees to give us a timely notice of a ticket recall by way of a text or email.

Especially if such a recall is on the day of the event.

*A violation of this term is considered a material breach of our consignment agreement and the customer agrees to assume any and all penalties which may result from a resale of reclaimed tickets.
